Agee Says 9 Are CIA Agents

KINGSTON, Jamaica—Phillip Agee, a former Cia operative and author of the book, "CIA Diary," said the agency had "significantly" increased its operations staff in Jamaica in the last five years. He named nine persons on the embassy staff who he said also worked for the CIA and said the CIA office in Kingston had increased its staff from three in 1971 to five today. "It's a very significant build-up for the CIA in any country," Agee told a news conference.
